of mouth”

Our practice has grown over the years almost entirely by word of mouth.

Patients who have been happy with the care they receive have recommended their family and friends to us as new patients. I am extremely grateful to everyone who has done this.

Although Dr Paterson and Dr

Baker are continuing to take on new patients, my appointment book has become so busy that I have put a freeze on new patients until early into the New Year. This is the only way I can continue to provide an excellent service for my existing patients.

Again a big THANK YOU for all your support.

A Canadian dentist has bought one of John Lennon's teeth for £19,500 at an auction in Stockport.

Alberta-based Michael Zuk bid by phone to secure the molar given by the former Beatle to his house keeper Dot Jarlett, who worked for him in the 1960s.

The tooth was from a collection of rock memorabilia owned by Alan McGee, former boss of Oasis's label Creation Records.

Dr Zuk, who has written a book on celebrities' teeth, said: "Once I heard it was up for sale I had to have it."

He plans to display the tooth in his surgery as well as take it on a tour of other dental surgeries and dental schools.

The whole team from Kelvin House went up to the West End a few weeks ago to see Billy Elliot as part of our Christmas Celebrations.

It was a fantastic show and I was just amazed by how the actors, dancers and singers could appear so enthusiastic when it was probably their 100th time of performing the show.

It reminded me of our practice where we try to be as enthusiastic when we start each morning, despite the fact that some of us have been 'performing' for 30 years!

The practice will be closed on Monday the 26th December Tuesday the 27th December
